The Biewer Family

It was meant to be full of beautiful memories. However, the stay at a camping in Sardinia ended with a severe tragedy for the Biewer Family. It occurred during their dinner together in the open air under the awning of their caravan. "My husband was refilling our table chimney, which runs on bioethanol. There was a sudden hiss and we were both in flames", remembers Mrs Biewer. Quick-wittedly, their children extinguished them. But nevertheless 25 per cent of Mrs Biewer's body sustained second- to third-degree burns. She even had to be reanimated on her way to the hospital. Later on, the doctors placed her into an artificial coma. With burns of a second and third degree on 5% of his body, her husband got off relatively lightly. Their children came away with a shock. It is above all the contact with Luxembourg Air Rescue, which gives them something to hold on to. Two hours after the accident, the eldest daughter is speaking to Stéphane Belkadi from the LAR alert centre. The medical regulator immediately reaches out to an uncle of the family, so that he can assist the children on the spot. "Such care can by no means be taken for granted", states the mother. Thanks to LAR's good relations with the "Centre de Traitement des Brûlés" in Loveral near Charleroi (B), they were able to quickly arrange the transfer by LAR-Learjet. The journey has clearly left scars on everyone – whether visible or not. Yet, the family, and above all the mother, do not let themselves be defeated. She persistently fights her way through rehabilitation.

30 years of experience

Some people in Luxembourg take rapid aid by air for granted in this country, but unfortunately, it is not self-evident! Air rescue services only exist in the Grand Duchy since the foundation of Luxembourg Air Rescue in 1988. Nevertheless, there are many others recently promoting their rescue helicopters and air ambulances.

But beware: in case of a medical emergency, only experience and know-how matter. Just ask these organisations if you can talk to their physicians, their nurses or even their pilots or if you can see their rescue helicopters, air ambulances or at least their ambulance. You will quickly realize that they do not have any of these resources. Instead, they subcontract external services.

This is not the case with Luxembourg Air Rescue! On the contrary, for 30 years now, we focus on our purpose: to save lives with OUR rescue helicopters in Luxembourg and the Greater Region and with OUR ambulance aircraft around the world.

When you call our alert number, OUR staff from the LAR-alert centre will personally take care of you from the very first call on. With us, you are not a reference number but a human being. We care about you!

4 reasons why should become a LAR Member today

Luxembourg Air Rescue (LAR) is a small humanitarian organization founded in 1988 by a handful of dedicated people. It has given itself the social task of saving people's lives and maintaining their health by using rescue helicopters and ambulance jets. This in Luxembourg, in the Greater Region and worldwide, 365 days a year, taking into account the highest safety and quality standards. Many people in Luxembourg owe their lives to our quick help from the air! The rescue helicopters and ambulance jets perform over 3.000 missions each year.

Our members and patients are our „Raison d'être“.

1 We are there for you, when it comes down to surviving

Every second counts, when it comes to saving your life or preserving your health. As a member of Luxembourg Air Rescue, you are actively supporting a fast and safe air rescue within the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg. In case of an emergency, with our helicopters we can get the emergency patient within 10 minutes - regardless of where he may be in Luxembourg.

2 Worldwide return journey free of charge

As an LAR Member, you can travel at ease, knowing that you are not alone. In case of a medical emergency abroad, Luxembourg Air Rescue will bring you back home - safely and for free. Regardless of whether this is with an ambulance, an airline or an ambulance jet.

3 Professionals with compassion, understanding and plenty of experience

No emergency is the same! You can rest assured that our experienced and specialised personnel is there for you, day and night. We know precisely what needs to be accomplished for a medical emergency abroad in order to help you quickly and efficiently. From the first call, until your safe return: With 30 year of experience, we are by your side, with compassion and understanding.

4 Quality - no "ifs" or "buts"

LAR has one of the most modern air rescue fleet of aircraft in the world. As an LAR Member you can trust that with us, when it comes to quality and safety, there is no room for compromise. This claim has been independently certified: As the first organisation in the world to operate with air rescue helicopters and ambulance aircraft, Luxembourg Air Rescue received the ISO quality recognition.
