

No members = no LAR!

"I get goose bumps! They are now flying somewhere to save human lives!" reckoned a visibly deeply moved visitor. The crew of Air Rescue 3 based at Findel was explaining how the air rescue services work when the beeper rang and within 2 minutes the crew took off for a mission with the LAR rescue helicopter. For our staff this is common, but for our visitors it is always impressive.

For some it is considered as normal that the rapid aid by air exists in Luxembourg, but unfortunately it is not!

Air rescue services only exist in Luxembourg since the foundation of Luxembourg Air Rescue 29 years ago.

And these air rescue services were and are only possible thanks to the financial support of our 184.000 members in and around Luxembourg. In return, we offer our members the possibility of a worldwide repatriation in case of a medical emergency abroad by air ambulance, rescue helicopter, ground ambulance or airliner with or without medical escort. For this we spare no efforts nor costs, our alert centre organises and coordinates these repatriations from A to Z. You have just to call us, we will take care of all the rest.

The emphasis lies on 'we', as LAR stands out due to its personal service. When you call our alert number, our staff from our own alert centre will take care of you from the very first call. With us, you are not just a reference number but a human being whose health is our priority.

Besides humanity, experience and competence matter in case of a medical emergency. With more than 170 experts, composed of flight dispatchers, specialized health professionals, experienced pilots, engineers and technicians, Luxembourg Air Rescue sets high standard and guarantees a 24/7 service at the highest level.

Testimonial of one of our members

David Rincón, 41 years old

"I was on a motocross-tour with friends in the Moroccan desert, when unfortunately the tour was over for me before it really started. The first day one wheel blocked, I fell off the bike and got hit by the engine. I was severely injured and my friends immediately called the emergency services. Still on the way to hospital, I called my wife who stayed home with our two children. She was worried sick as I could not tell her yet how severely injured I was. This got only clear once I was examined at the military hospital in Guelmim. My clavicle and several ribs were broken during the accident. Furthermore one rib perforated the lung (hemopneumothorax). For the fracture of the clavicle I had to undergo surgery. Although I was in a military hospital, which seemed to have good medical equipment and the necessary medical supply, I still preferred to undergo surgery in Luxembourg. And that is how my wife contacted Luxembourg Air Rescue. The staff of the alert centre took immediately care of my request for repatriation. It was by far the most beautiful moment during my trip when I saw in the faces of my rescuers two days after my wife's call when they came to pick me up from my bed in the hospital to bring me back home in the fully equipped LAR LearJet."

6 good reasons to become a LAR member

1 Experts in the medical air rescue services

Numerous people owe their life to the fast airborne medical assistance by rescue helicopter. Thanks to the support of its members air rescue services exist in Luxembourg. As a private organisation LAR is mainly self-financed and depends thereby on the membership fee of its adherents. With his membership every member shows solidarity and helps us to maintain the air rescue services in Luxembourg. As a token of gratitude to its members for their contribution, Luxembourg Air Rescue offers them free repatriation from abroad in case of a medical emergency.

2 Free repatriation worldwide

Most health insurance companies do not cover repatriations from abroad. In case of a medical emergency worldwide – provided that the safety of the affiliated member who is repatriated and of the medical and technical staff can be guaranteed, LAR organises the quickest possible repatriation of its member. We choose the type of transportation most adequate for your medical condition: ground ambulance, rescue helicopter, commercial airliner or air ambulance. If you are a member, LAR organises the entire transport from abroad at no extra costs.

3 We take personally care of YOU

Our patients and members are our 'raison d'être'. Unlike services offered by commercial assistance organisations, your call to LAR does not end in an anonymous call centre: within the LAR alert centre, well trained LAR employees take over your call, keep contact with your family, organise your repatriation with our own jets, pilots and doctors and provide you, if needed, a hospital bed.

4 Airborne intensive care units

LAR operates its own fleet of ultra-modern rescue helicopters and air ambulances offering ideal transportation conditions for sick and severely injured patients, both on short and long distance flights. With state of the art 'flying hospitals' and medical equipment, LAR actually provides real airborne intensive care units. LAR performs over 800 missions every year from different countries.

5 In case of a medical emergency only experience and know-how matter

Every mission is different thus requiring customized, fast and professional preparation as well as execution. LAR hereby relies on highly qualified specialists like doctors, pilots and flight nurses. They are available around the clock and ready for a rapid take-off to bring you medical help. In light of even the most complicated missions, the knowledge, the awareness and the dedication of our personnel guarantee the best possible execution of their task.

6 Qualité = Sécurité

LAR was the first helicopter and air ambulance operator worldwide that has been certified with the ISO quality label. Quality, effectiveness and security, both medically and technically, are guaranteed at the highest level and regularly verified.
